STATE RESTS IN TRIAL OF MURDER CASE

Mrs. Snyder Will Tell Her Story of Mur- der Tomorrow

New York, April 28—(AP)—The state rested its case in the Snyder murder trial at 12:25 p. m. today. Court was then adjourned until 4 o'clock this afternoon when the defense will begin presentation of their cases.

Closing of the case against Mrs. Ruth Snyder and Henry Judd Gray came after testimony of a group of Syracusans, including Haddon Gray who helped his friend Judd establish an alibi, thinking he was merely covering up Judd's absence while he was enjoying a "mild flirtation". Haddon Gray testified that Judd Gray confessed to him the killing of Albert Snyder after Judd was in jail.

It was understood that when court was resumed today it would stay in session only for the hearing of motions.

E. F. Hazelton of defense counsel announced that Mrs. Snyder will take the stand in her own defense tomorrow.

Haddon Gray took the witness stand early today to tell of the alibi he established for his friend Henry Judd Gray on the day Albert Snyder was killed.

District Attorney Newcombe questioned Haddon Gray.

"Did you see the defendant Gray on March 19?"

"Yes, he wanted to know if I would help him out. He said he was going to keep a dinner engagement in Albany with 'Mumsie' and might be out all night. He asked me to stay in his room, answer telephone calls from his wife or office and generally give the impression that he was in his room."

"Do you know who 'Mumsie' is?"

"Mrs. Snyder."

Thought It Flirtation

Gray said he agreed to establish an alibi for his friend, thinking he was helping in a mild flirtation.

"I went to the defendant Gray's room, mailed some letters he had left, phoned the desk not to disturb me. Later I rumped the bed. That was the next day, March 29."

"When did you hear from Gray?"

"He telephoned me late that afternoon and invited me to supper. We went to Gray's room. He said that when he got to Albany he found a telegram from 'Mumsie' telling him to go to her home in New York. He said he went there and when her husband returned unexpectedly he got in a closet. He told me that when he came out he found that the husband had been killed. He showed me some bloodstained clothing. He told about a dark man, apparently a burglar, ransacking the house."

"What was done with the articles he showed you?"

"He said 'I must get rid of these, will you help me?' I suggested we take the stuff to Platt's office which we did in a black suit case that we put on a shelf."

Plated With Children

"I took the defendant Gray home with me. While my wife was getting supper he played marbles on the floor with my children."

"Did you see Gray in jail here?"

"Yes, I said 'Bud, did you do it?' and he said 'Had I did.' I said 'why did you?' and he said, 'I don't know'."

Under cross examination by counsel for Mrs. Snyder the witness was asked:

"You thought a burglary had been committed and a man killed. Did you do anything to help the authorities?"

"I did not."

"Did you do everything to cover up your friend's trail?"

"I thought I was protecting him from being a victim of circumstances."

Admits Falsehood

He learned on Monday that Gray was charged with murder, he said.

Tuesday detectives told him Judd had confessed and asked for his bag. "I told them I didn't know anything about it," the witness said.

"That was a falsehood?"

"Yes."

Asked why he had not told the truth, Gray replied:

"I didn't believe Judd was guilty."

"Wasn't your purpose to withhold all you could until you compared notes with Judd Gray so that you would not be indicted as an accessory to the murder?"

"It was not."

Springfield, Ill., April 28—(UPI)—The administration gasoline tax bill was introduced in the House today by Representative A. Otis Arnold of Quincy. It provides for a tax of two cents per gallon on gasoline for use in motor vehicles only. Money so derived will be devoted to the state road building program. There will be a public hearing on the proposed measure in the senate chamber at 2:30 o'clock Wednesday, March 4.

A duplicate of the house bill was offered in the senate at the same time by Senator Richard Meents of Ashkum.

Pass Appropriation Bills

Three appropriation bills were passed in the house this morning and now go to the senate. They would provide $4,166,025 for state officials and the next general assembly; $105,640 for the Illinois Farmers Institute and allied organizations; and $30,000 for construction of buildings at the University of Illinois experiment station in Cook county.

Ten other appropriation bills were advanced to third reading including the University of Illinois appropriation bill and the bill for the common school fund of $16,227,000.

Guzma was placed under arrest and taken to the county jail in this city where he was locked up to recover from a several days alleged spree. Guzma was liberated from the county jail Monday morning where he was serving out a fine of $200 and costs on a charge of disorderly conduct which is said to have been the result of a protracted spree. Friends came to the rescue after he had spent about two weeks in jail, paid up the remainder of the fine and secured his release upon his promise to cease drinking and go to work. It was indicated at noon that a charge of driving an automobile on public highways while in an intoxicated condition would be preferred against Guzma in the county court when he recovers from the effects of his celebration.

OLD MASTERS

Thou wast all that to me, love,
 For which my soul did pine;
 A grotto in the sea, love,
 A fountain and a shrine
 All wreathed with fairy fruits and flowers
 And all the flowers were mine.

Ah, dream too bright to last!
 Ah, stony Hope that didn't arise
 But to be overcast!
 A voice from out of the Future cries,

On on!—but o'er the Past
 (Dim, gulf!) my spirit hovering lies
 Mute, motionless, aghast.

And all my mighty dreams
 And al my mighty dreams
 Are where the dark eye glances,
 And where thy footstep gleams—
 In what ethereal dances,
 By what eternal streams.

 Paradise."

Menus for the Family

BREAKFAST—Baked rhubarb, cereal with dates, cream, crisp toast, soft cooked eggs, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON—Lamb loaf, creamed potatoes, carrot salad, sponge cake with canned fruit and whipped cream, milk, tea.

DINNER—Baked ham, browned sweet potatoes, steamed spinach with butter and lemon juice, romaine and orange salad, rice souffle, bread, milk, coffee.

If you are planning to serve spinach, you will give this vegetable a long bath in a large pan of water you will find it much easier to clean. Several hours before time to cook the spinach, pull off the roots. Drop the leaves loosely into a big pan of water and wash through several waters. When you think the spinach is clean put it into a large pan of salt water and let stand two hours. Then when ready to use, rinse through several leek waters and cook in the water that clings to the leaves. This thorough washing insures delicious cooked spinach free from grit.

Carrot Salad

One cup grated raw carrot, 1 cup cottage cheese, lemon juice, sweet cream, hearts lettuce. Sprinkle carrots with as much lemon juice as they can absorb. Let stand half an hour. Combine carrots and cottage cheese adding enough cream to make moist. Season with salt and pepper and drop from tip of spoon into lettuce leaves. This is an excellent salad for children.

CARNIVAL AND DANCE WAS GREAT SUCCESS

The carnival and dance sponsored by Dorothy Chapter, No. 371, O. E. S. at Masonic hall last evening to raise funds for the erection of the new Masonic Temple to be erected in North Dixon this summer proved a most successful and entertaining affair.

It is to be regretted that the carnival was held for only one night as many had signified their intention of attending had it been held for another evening or so. It was exceptionally well attended and all the guests were in glee spirit. The booths were exceedingly well patronized. There was the candy booth, hot sandwich booth, pie and cake booth, coffee, etc. The fancy work booth was of much interest to the fair sex and the "Kisses" booth was of interest to old and young. The fortune teller told your past, present and future and she was said to be "some seer". The old hat booth proved a feature of much fun, and staid elderly gentlemen were seen wearing hats of ancient lineage and of all things! What do you suppose they were doing? Fishing in the fish pond—and one blushing young man after fishing industriously, pulled out a suit of flannel underwear for an infant. There was much fun in every department and jollity held sway for the evening. Some of the guests played cards and many others spent the evening dancing. The entire occasion was more than successful and all attending are telling their friends about it and hoping for a repetition of the "Carnival" at an early date.

SEEING BY TELEPHONE.

"What hath God wrought?"

When the first telegraph, crude in construction, was placed in operation between Baltimore and Washington, it carried that message. We do not repeat it when we transmit by means of a new invention, but we think it. The persons sending the messages do not want to be guilty of plagiarism, so they think up something new, but they may as well repeat the first message. They have not improved upon it.

The first message by wire was sent in 1844. Thirty years elapsed before we were given the telephone. To be exact the instrument was patented by Alexander Bell in 1876. Those of us who always have had the use of these instruments are able to conceive of how wonderful they were to the people who had not known them before only by thinking of the development of the radio in the last few years.

After communication by wires was established, the inventors turned their attention to communication without wires. Existence of electromagnetic waves was declared in 1863, but development to practical use far off. Marconi began his experiments in 1895. The first intelligible message was sent in 1897 over a distance of fifteen miles. In 1901 messages were sent across the ocean and wireless telegraphy, as it was called, was assured for public use. Wireless telephony was the next development, and after the war it was turned to use for public entertainment.

Within the last few months conversation across the Atlantic ocean was made possible. Since the radio board was organized, announcement was made that vision by radio seemed to be only a few months off. Just ahead of that has come television. By an instrument recently perfected it is possible to see the person with whom a conversation is being held over a telephone wire.

Secretary Hoover of the department of commerce and Walter S. Gifford, president of the American Telephone and Telegraph company, held a conversation between Washington and New York, during which Hoover could be seen in New York. The instrument permitted vision only one way, but vision both ways is said to be possible.

How rapidly this invention will be developed we can only guess. It is said that it will not be available for general use very soon.

There seems to be no end to what God hath wrought.

TIMELY WORDS.

It was a very timely address that Dr. L. S. Rowe, director general of the Pan-American Union, delivered the other night at the annual convention of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

It was so good that we're going to quote a short excerpt here. Think it over and see if you don't think he was right.

"I want to congratulate you," said Dr. Rowe, "on the great national service which you are performing in emphasizing the duties of patriotism as well as its rights. You are bringing home to the younger generation the outstanding fact that the great power and far-reaching influence exercised by our country carries with it heavy responsibilities and obligations. We must not lull ourselves to sleep with the thought that we are immune from the possibility of abusing that power."

"It is a significant fact, which we should never lose sight of, that inaction is quite as far-reaching in its consequences as positive action."

GOOD YEARS AHEAD.

Dixon's new city commission has been selected by the voters and the selection is such that Dixon may look forward to four more years of sane and wise administration of our city business. Dixon is usually fortunate in her selection of city administrators and the latest election is no exception. The graft and turmoil resultant from the wrong men in office of which we read in other cities has been happily absent here. Constant improvements without the building up of city debt are the rule in Dixon. The city is kept morally clean and decent without the drawback of fanatical blue lawism.

The new commission starts off with the confidence of the people and we believe it will sustain the standard of the last one.

THIS WEIGHTY WORLD.

Mother earth weighs six sextillion, 592 quintillion tons, we are just informed from a reliable party who weighed her. What must it have been 30 years ago, when bustles were the thing! . . . The world weighs considerably less now, too, that the ladies have quit eating regularly. . . . The world's head must weigh considerably less than it used to. That is, judging by the juries. . . . The same scientist says that sailors steer by the heavenly bodies. And all this time we had thought it was the heavenly faces in every port!

Maybe the 100-cup coffee drinkers, the 10-quart porridge eaters, the 150-stick gum chewers and the rest of the clan should organize. And affiliate with the Amalgamated People Who Have Slapped Kerensky's Face.

The next best thing to coming from good stock is owning plenty of it.

THE TINYMITES

STORY BY HAL COCHRAN — PICTURES BY KNICK

READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE

Said Mother Goose, "You sleepy heads had best run off and find some beds. I think a very good night's sleep is just the proper thing. Upstairs a lot of cots I keep. Just crawl right in and go to sleep. Then jump up in the morning when you hear the 'alarm clock ring.'

Then came the merry cry, "Good-night," and every little Tinymite went scampering to the second floor to crawl into a cot. Said Clowny Tinymite, "Oh, geel! This bed's as soft as it can be. I hope I don't disturb you, 'cause I'll snore as like as not."

The others laughed, and crawled in, too. A very proper thing to do, 'cause they had all grown very tired from tearing all around. At midnight, Mother Goose peeked in and what she saw just made her grin. The bunch were all so sound asleep you couldn't hear a sound.

And then they heard the 'alarm clock hum,' which told them that the morn-

SINNER

Jim, Junior, and his bride, Fay, insisted upon Jim's having lunching with them, so that Faith and Bob were free to lunch alone and to talk unhampered of Cherry's trial. They had long since tacitly agreed to shun the subject of the trial and its probable outcome when Cherry's disconsolate father was with them.

"We'll lunch in our own little tea room, which the mob hasn't discovered yet, thank heaven," Bob told her companion, as they drove away from the court house. "No, we don't want a paper!" he shouted irritably to a newsboy who had clambered upon the running board.

"Wait, Bob!" Faith cried, seeing the headlines. "Your aunt, Mrs. Albright, has been robbed! Here, sonny!" She dropped a nickel into the boy's dirty hand and took the paper.

"Cluny" daughter victim of jewel robbery," she read aloud. "She was robbed on Saturday while she was attending the trial, dear, and the loss has just been discovered."

"How much?" Bob asked laconically, but there was a rather grim smile on his handsome, tired face.

"The loss is estimated at forty thousand dollars," Faith told him breathlessly, her eyes jumping down the column of type. "It says that this is the fourth big jewel robbery in the last six months, and not a single arrest has been made yet. The chief of police is quoted here as saying it looks like the work of one gang, directed by a "master mind."

"Old stuff!" Bob snorted contemptuously. "Just a nice, machine-made little alibi that Morehouse trotts out when he's fallen down on the job. What's that headline about Cherry?"

"Bates' testimony blow to defense," Faith read aloud, dispiritedly. "A subhead says, 'Cherry lays blame on Wiley, when confronted by preacher.' I knew the papers would seize on Bates' testimony as a sort of confession, and you can imagine what they'll do with Anderson's evidence about Cherry's saying, 'To think I got rid of Ralph Cluny for a thing like you!' The late afternoon papers will be shrieking that Cherry confessed to killing Cluny, Bob!"

She dropped the paper to the floor of the car and laid a trembling hand on his arm. "We've got to do something! Do you realize that Churchill has nothing—nothing—to combat all this terrible evidence with, but Cherry's own unsupported word? And when he puts her on the witness stand Banning will simply tear her to pieces. We've got to do something, Bob!"

"I've been hoping that Crowell, Churchill's investigator, would turn up something," Bob admitted dejectedly. "Seems to me a good detective could have got hold of something in connection with that threatening letter, but Churchill says they have run into a blind alley on that lead."

"Have you forgotten all about old Phil, the beggar?" Faith asked, reproach creeping into her tired voice. "No, darling, I haven't forgotten about him. I've got a man stationed to watch Phil's corner and to report to me if the beggar shows up, and I've been down in Shantytown—Peach Tree Hollow—twice lately, to try to trace him. If he's living down there, he's got the whole dirty district in cahoots with him to hide the fact. Looks to me like somebody's told him that I'm looking for him and he's hiding out. Old Kelly, who runs the news stand, you know, has promised to get word to me the minute old Phil shows up. Here we are, honey. Let's have lunch and try to forget about it all for an hour. It breaks my heart to see you looking so tired and discouraged. I wish you'd stay at home one day from the trial and try to get some rest."

"Stay at home when Cherry is fighting for her life?" Faith flamed at him. "Bob, I believe you've given up hope! You're beginning to believe she did it! And if you doubt her—No, don't touch me! I don't want to be made love to! I want Cherry to be free! I don't want anything else in this world!"

Following their queen, a swarm of bees alighted on the bumper of an automobile parked in an Ohio city street.

TOMORROW: Faith discovers that

"NOW AH, TO USE THE VERNACULAR OF TODAY, WHAT SAY WE THROW A HOUSE IN HIS HONOR, EH?"

"JAKE'S GOLD DOESN'T GLITTER."

"ANSWERING YOU IN THE LANGUAGE OF TODAY, I'D SUGGEST THAT WE THROW JAKE OUT, IN HONOR OF THE HOUSE!"

"AS FOR HIS ALLEGED WEALTH, I WOULDN'T ACCEPT A CRUMB FROM JAKE IF HE WAS THE CRACKER-KING OF THE WORLD!"

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

At a convention of scientists in Washington recently a plant was shown growing within a hermetically sealed bulb, proving that plants do not need fresh air. It uses the same water and air over and over again and requires no attention.

The bagpipe did not originate in Scotland. It can be traced to ancient Persia, and, by inference, was played in Chaldea, Egypt and ancient Greece.

With a spurt by the St. Louis Browns which carried them to second place in the American League, the battle for the lead today waxed hotter. The Browns passed Washington yesterday challenging the Yanks for league leadership. Their advance was due to a ten inning victory over Cleveland 4-2.

With the Yanks and the Senators idle because of rain, the Athletics took another step forward by beating the Red Sox, 4-1, tying Washington for third. Ty Cobb again starred with two hits, one a double.

A pitchers' battle between Blake of the Cubs and Donohue of the Reds broke 2-1 in favor of the Cubs.

For the second time in three days, George Connally did a rescue act for the White Sox.

NOTES OF THE DAY

Stephenson, Cuban outfielder, is slapping the ball hard since being sent to the outergarden from third base.

Bob Fothergill of the Tigers collected three hits yesterday against the White Sox, scoring both of Detroit's runs.

Harry McCurdy, former University of Illinois star, continues with his heavy hitting for the White Sox. He got three hits in three times up.

Handshaking Barred by Champion of Heavies

New York, April 28—(AP)—Gene Tanney, heavyweight champion, is willing to do without the glad hand of hero worship. He told Robert H. Davis whose story is printed in the New York Sun today.

The champion regards handshaking as a menace to the health of public figures. Handshaking wrecks constitutions, it hastened the death of Harding and Roosevelt, and no president should participate in any demonstration that requires him to shake hands with a line of people, he thinks. "No man can stand it," he said.

Close Race in Three Eye League Expected

Decatur, Ill., April 28—(AP)—The Three Eye League opened its 26th campaign today with two games in Illinois and two in Indiana. Rainy weather hampered spring workouts, but President L. J. Wylie, beginning his third term in office, said he looked for "an eight team flag race instead of six."

"The two weak teams of last year, Bloomington and Quincy, have been strengthened," he said. "Every club in the circuit needs more work but should be going at top speed in a month or so."

Sprigfield, which won post season series last fall with the Michigan and Western League champions, entertains Bloomington in the opener.

Peoria starts at Quincy, Decatur at Evansville and Danville at Terre Haute.

Chicago—One fourth of the gate receipts at the hantamweight boxing show Tuesday night will be given to the flood relief fund, Promoter Jimmy Miller announced today and each boxer will be asked to give a percentage of his purse.

New York—Plans for two cross country foot races were under way today. Shortly after C. C. Pyle, promoter announced plans for a transcontinental marathon for a $25,000 prize, the New York Press Club proposed a Los Angeles to Portland, Me., relay walking race for prizes of $10,000.

Dos Moline—With nearly every train and a considerable number of automobiles bringing their share of the more than 2,500 athletes to compete, Drake officials were busy today making final preparations for the 38th annual relays tomorrow and Saturday. The opening day's program will be featured largely by high school relays, college relays and university preliminaries.

Philadelphia—More than 3,000 athletes were either here today or on their way to match speed, strength and ability in the Pennsylvania Athletic Carnival tomorrow and Saturday. Given an international atmosphere by the presence of five athletes from Cambridge University, England, and a relay team from the Delta College Institute of Hamilton, Ont., the great meet has drawn record entries for 102 events.

Columbus—Another shakup in the standings of the women's National Bowling Tournament was made last night when teams from Cleveland, St. Louis and New York displaced three Chicago teams in the leaders of the five women division.

Louisville—Osmond, Widener stable colt, winter book favorite entry in the Kentucky Derby, turned in a disappointing run yesterday. With Soddy, the big red colt, dropped off the first part of the trial at dazzling speed, but tailed off badly. The first eighth was in :11 1-5; quarter 23 1-5; half in 47 2-5 and three quarters 1:14.

Los Angeles—Charles Paddock, champion sprinter who several times this year has shelved his spiked shoes to complete his motion picture work, only to don them again, announced today, he would run no more this year.

The band voted to tender their services for Memorial Day. Richard Belcher, President, and Barry Lennon, Secretary-Treasurer, gave short talks on the history of the band, as well as its present status. The organization is in splendid condition and will, no doubt, have a full program of activities during the summer.

The first game of the grade school baseball league will be played off this evening at 4 o'clock at the E. C. Smith diamond. South Central will play the E. C. Smith school at this time and an exciting contest is anticipated.

TOASTMASTERS WILL SPONSOR POULTRY MATCH

Fifty Boys to be Furnished Eggs for Annual Contest

Following the action taken two weeks ago, the Toastmasters' Club is conducting a poultry contest this year, following the lines of the contest of 1926. A contest committee, composed of H. G. Byers, John Weiss and Sec. J. C. Koller has sent contracts to teachers of schools in the vicinity of Dixon, these to be signed by the boys and returned to the committee. Each boy will receive a setting of eggs, breed to be chosen by him. In addition he will receive printed instructions in up-to-date poultry husbandry, and he will also receive subscription to a poultry magazine. Each boy will fulfill his contract, must hatch the eggs before May 27th, feed and grow the chicks to maturity and show his best pullet and cockerel at the Toastmasters' Chicken Fair to be held at the Y. M. C. A. early in November. Prizes of a practical nature will be awarded this year, such as brooder coops, or other paraphana used in poultry raising.

Having had a year's experience, the Toastmasters' Club feels that it can put on a better contest this year, with more satisfactory results to all concerned. Indications are that the allotment of fifty settings will be exhausted in short order.

Talks were given by Earl Senoff, who has been the "back-bone" of the band for years; Professor J. W. Johnston, Russel Mason, and F. F. Suter. Professor Johnston will direct the band in the future and is planning some innovations that will tend to increase the interest of the members.

ABOUT JEALOUSY
Dear Editor—After reading the editorial in Tuesday night's paper on "Jealousy" I am going to give you the facts in the case.

The mail clerk is all the article says, "He ordinarily was", but he has suffered for years knowing that his wife preferred the night life to him and their daughter.

He, as well as her parents, brothers and sisters who are all respected citizens of the small growing city have all pleaded time and again for her to repent and make a happy home for her loved ones, but to no avail.

Latest reports are she will recover and will not prosecute.

VACCINATION AND NATURE PROTEST AGAINST DISEASE

A Great Physician Tells of Resistance to Deadly Ailments

By Charles D. Lockwood, M. D.,
Pasadena, Cal.

Member Gorgas Memorial Institute
There is much misunderstanding and some prejudice in the public mind against all forms of vaccination. This prejudice is due partly to lack of information on the part of many people regarding the true nature of vaccination and partly to the propaganda of anti-vaccinationists.

It is the purpose of this article to remove the prejudice which many people hold against vaccination by explaining in a simple way the reason for vaccination and some of the reasons why practically all well-trained physicians believe in it and recommend it to their patients.

Every one is endowed with a certain amount of resistance to disease. The degree of this resistance is largely a matter of heredity. There are certain diseases, such as tuberculosis, cancer, and certain blood diseases, which, while not directly transmitted from parent to child, are nevertheless family diseases. Children born of parents having suffered from these diseases inherit a type of tissue of body cells with lowered resistance and they are more liable to develop these diseases.

This resistance to disease is called "immunity." The immunity which we derive from our parents is called "natural immunity," and there is another kind of immunity or resistance to disease which is called "acquired immunity." This acquired immunity can be greatly stimulated by vaccination.

When one catches cold or contracts any of the contagious diseases, nature immediately sets about to develop in the blood substances which are known as "antitoxins" and these have the power of overcoming or greatly lessening the severity of the disease. The greater one's natural or inherited immunity, the more readily he develops this artificial or acquired immunity.

Healthy animals and men can be gradually accustomed by giving repeated small doses of vaccine to resist a very large dose of disease germs, and one who has suffered from smallpox, typhoid fever, diphtheria, or almost any acute infectious disease acquires an immunity of longer or shorter duration to these diseases. This same immunity can be developed artificially by means of vaccination and the development of this phase of medical science is one of the greatest triumphs of modern life.

Both parents and children should be vaccinated for protection against smallpox, typhoid fever, where the water and milk supply is not absolutely safe, diphtheria, scarlet fever, meningitis, and several less serious diseases.

CHAPTER XX

Maybe you were at Bazoches on Aug. 9, 1918. Maybe you were at Epieds,—Chamery,—Prunay,—Wez—Stes. Menehould—or Vigny.

It makes little difference; when you Legionaries come this September you will see they all have changed. But the American influence is easy to recognize.

A peasant goes past with a leather jacket he probably purchase for ten francs and the purchaser probably tried to out-face a buddy with the galloping dominoes. And raincoats? Well, it must be that all those buckled sliders were left behind for a consideration. This work of reconstruction in the devastated areas could hardly go on without American help.

Hob-nailed hikers, too. Still going strong.

In the bivouac that wasn't standing there when you sweated through with the line of advance you can now buy cafe au lait, or cafe au rhum. Avec de rhum, madame. Avec de rhum.

"Voulez-vous promenade, Madame?" "Non, pas promenade, M'sieur."

"Purquah."

"Olala."

"Aw, sanny-fairy-ann."

"Mais, non."

"Then bring on some vin blanc."

If you try cafe au lait madame will bring it along in two little pitchers, the au lait in one and the cafe in the other. And the au lait will be cold, and so also will be the cafe. You can try one of those well-known omelettes with the pommes des terres all wrapped up inside. Boy! And all wrapped up inside. Boy!

And you can cut your bread off the big piece with your jack-knife, just like any good efficient A. E. F. soldier.

Moonee's Emerald Oil is safe and pleasant to use; it doesn't stain or leave a greasy residue. It is so powerfully antiseptic and deodorant that all unpleasant odors resulting from excessive foot perspiration are instantly killed.

Be patient; don't expect a single bottle to do it all at once but one bottle we know will show you before all question that you have at last discovered the way to solid foot comfort.

ounce original bottle of Moonee's Em-</p

"WHAT EVERY GIRL SHOULD KNOW," with Patsy Ruth Miller, is a Warner Bros. picturization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

Mary Sullivan—slender, beautiful, red-headed—is tennis champion. A poetical, spiritual girl is Mary, despite her physical prowess. Her spirit lives on in Mary. Mary becomes acquainted with Wally Mason, a young reporter. Mary keeps house for her brothers, David and Robert. David, the family support, hopes Mary will get safely married; but Mary disbelieves in love. Wally tells her he loves her. She, troubled, says she does not love him. Coming home, she learns David has been in an accident.

"Well Mary, it seems that Davie's crashing into that car killed Arthur Graham's fiancee."

Mr. Tomlinson had come quite close to her, prepared to catch her if she fell in a faint, which was what he expected of her because it was the way in which all womenfolk acted at the receipt of bad news. He put out a hand in readiness and then let it fall in some embarrassment. Young Robert's hold on Mary tightened, and he burrowed his head still deeper into its resting place. Mr. Tomlinson tipped to the door and shushed away Freddie, whose small round face was pressed against the screen. When he returned Mary was still standing as he had left her, and her gaze was fixed on nothing.

"We're sorry, Mary. Mrs. Tomlinson and I." He cleared his throat, and shot a glance at her. "We'll do everything we can—Mrs. Tomlinson's nephew has a friend who is secretary to the Mayor, and if that'll help—No use feelin' bad about it Mary. It's just one of those things that come like a bolt from the blue and hit you—" Mr. Tom-

"Well—they couldn't ordinarily, but they claim, Mary, they claim Davie was drunk while driving." Mr. Tomlinson gazed down into the bowl of his pipe, and then from it to Mary. A little glance that emanated from masculinity. She longed to bathe in it.

"Well—they couldn't ordinarily, but they claim, Mary, they claim Davie was drunk while driving." Mr. Tomlinson gazed down into the bowl of his pipe, and then from it to Mary. A little glance that emanated from masculinity. She longed to bathe in it.

"Drunk? She didn't understand. David drunk? But David didn't drink. How very funny. David didn't drink. She told it to Mr. Tomlinson, certain that he had erred some way in his speech.

"But, Mr. Tomlinson," eagerly, "David doesn't drink!" Somehow she felt that this was what had been wrong all this while. Now it would be cleared up.

"Yes, I know. But they don't know that, Mary. They found an empty whiskey bottle on him."

An empty whiskey bottle. But how—oh, how, on David? It couldn't be. And then young Robert spoke up in a small, grave voice. "Don't you remember, Mary? That's the bottle that had his tea in it, don't you remember?"

The whiskey flask they had used used for his hot tea until they could afford a thermos bottle! Of course, she remembered it, and thought of the change in the little cream pitcher in the cupboard which was to have gone toward the sum necessary for the thermos bottle. But—but, how silly, how silly to suspect David of carrying in it anything but tea! How—how absurd. She laughed shakily, a bit bewildered.

"But how silly, Mr. Tomlinson," she told him. "How—how absurd. I—"

Mr. Tomlinson cleared his throat. "Well, Mary, that's what they call circumstantial evidence." He looked grave.

Mary grew a bit wild at that. "But can't I do anything?" She put Robert from her lap, and came to stand before the little man, her hands clasping each other nervously, one hand pulling, pulling at the thumb of the other.

"Well Mary. That's just as I said. We can't do anything tonight. But tomorrow—just go to bed and rest up, and tomorrow I'll see what can be done. Just go to bed and rest up Mary, and don't let this bother you, and tomorrow we'll see what can be done." Mr. Tomlinson patted the girl's shoulder awkwardly, muttered "good night, Mary—now please—hm—please just rest up—" and was gone. He had shut the screen door carefully behind him, and she heard his footsteps down the stairs and across the walk, then silence.

Mary pushed the heavy fringe of hair from her forehead, and was vaguely surprised to find it wet. Young Robert came to her and said, "What are you going to do, Mary?" His little face was streaked and smudged, and his lashes tangled with wet. He knew, however, did Robert, that everything would be straightened out somehow, now that Mary was here.

"I don't know, Bob. I don't know what to do."

David in prison. David charged with murder. David in prison, behind iron bars. David white and wan with harrowing thoughts of the two whom he had left behind. David with visions of mother who had charged his small self with the care of the two younger than he. David racked by the avalanche that had suddenly slid down upon him, burying his head and shoulders, making it painful to breathe, to live—

"Well Mary," Mr. Tomlinson patted her shoulder. "Well—I guess I'll be going. It's too late to do anything today, anyway. You go to bed and get some sleep, Mary, and tomorrow everything'll be brighter, you see."

"I want to know more," said Mary. She had struggled above the eddies of thought and pain and numbed feeling. "Please, Mr. Tomlinson, I must know more."

He gazed at her doubtfully. "I'm perfectly all right. It—it was rather staggering—at first, you understand?" She managed a smile, eager to let him see that she could bear whatever was coming. "But now—I must know everything, Mr. Tomlinson, please!"

"Well, Mary, there's not so much." He drew a chair up for her and young Robert, and seated himself opposite.

Farming Record Is Set

County in Colorado

Denver, Colo.—(AP)—Weld county, Colo., comprising that section of the state colonized through the efforts of Horace Greeley, reveals that the people knew much about lands. This county, with a total of 1,099,766 acres, is the second largest in the state and ranks fourth in the United States as an agricultural area. It also ranks as the first county in the entire country in the production of sugar beets.

There are 4,746 farms in the county, with an average area of 231.71 acres. It is the center of the largest irrigated area in the world.

That agriculture pays in a state noted mainly for its mining is evidenced by there being 27 banks in the county compared to 16 in Denver. Greeley is the county seat.

KILLED BY THIRD RAIL

Aurora, Ill., April 27—(AP)—Peter D. Hax, 44, 125 Santa Fe Street, Fullerton, Calif., was killed today and Jack May, 46, Louisville, Ky., was possibly fatally injured when their automobile was struck by a Chicago, Aurora & Elgin third rail electric car as it was coming into Aurora. The men were on their way to the Exposition Jockey Club course north of town where a running meeting is being held. The crossing where the accident occurred is on a street approach to a bridge and is marked by a flashing signal. Hax is said to have interests in several horses. May is a former jockey.

DEMSEY WILL FIGHT
New York, April 27—(AP)—After receiving positive assurances today that Jack Dempsey intends to stage a comeback, Tex Rickard announced he will match the former champion for a bout with Paulino Uzcudun on or about July 1, probably at the Yankee Stadium.

GERMANY BUILDS DAM

BERLIN—One of the largest dams in the world, by far the biggest in Europe, is one now being constructed in the valley of the Sorpe. It will be 225 feet high and 2400 feet long. Nine million gallons of water will be stored there to serve a district of 4,000,000 people. Two years will be required to complete the dam and about three more to fill it.

The bridal veil has its origin in the east where many women still go veiled during the greater part of their lives.

"I suffered from kidney trouble. Misery to stoop, agony to rise up, just sick all over. Foley Pills, a diuretic stimulant for the kidneys, made a big difference in me. I feel like another person, stronger and better in every way."

[Signed] Sara E. Weston, Belvidere, Ill.
